Sophisticated casual of today's modern woman*

Charlotte, NC – The inaugural trunk show for German designer annette görtz's Spring 2006 line was so well received, that Rahe Lynne Clothier will hold an exclusive preview of the Fall 2006 collection Thursday, April 20 through Monday, April 24, 2006 at their by-appointment boutique.

The designer has a worldwide following of women with a passion for modern style that is both comfortable and versatile such that it transitions easily between day and night. This year's fall collection exemplifies the designer's focus on bringing sophisticated casual to the forefront with rich neutrals and blacks complimented by muted greens and deep ocean blues. Layering to appeal to all climates is prominent in the ensembles featured in this year's collection. Fabrics are rich with texture and feel including daytime velvets and kashmir, blended with contemporary textures of metal and microfiber.

In addition to the in-boutique showing of the line, Rahe Lynne Clothier will debut the annette görtz Fall 2006 Milan runway show via the boutique's website. The show can be viewed at www.rahelynne.com/collections/video/annettegortz/fall06, or while visiting the showroom's website at www.rahelynne.com and following the collection links.
